PAYING HACK-HIRE.

Vigorous Method Introduced by Ex-Police-Captain Arata, who, without Adequate Provocation, Furiously

Old Hack-Driver, and then Arrested him for Using Abusive Language-A Brutal Outrage that Ought to be Punished.

Between twelve and one o'clock yesterday afternoon, on Main street, nearly opposite the Peabody hotel, R. F. Arata, ex-captain of police, now on the sanitary, stepped up to Oney Hart, an old backman, applied a vile epithet to him, and immediately commenced manner known to experienced policemen.

According to statements of gentlemen who were witnesses of the affair, Hart made no resistance, used no offensive language, and begged for his life while attempting to dodge the blows of the officer. After the old were in the cases of John R. and Martha Weaver, Charlotte Restemeyer and Nancy Wells. The attorney was ordered to prosecute ex-officio. both sides of the controversy. Several per-sons who witnessed the outrage seemed anxious to be summoned before the jury, in order to have Arata indicted for assault and ARATA'S STATEMENT. Mr. Arata, who was found at the office of he board of health, made the following rehealth office, demanded from me a hack bill which I did not make. He called me a d—d coundrel, and said I took advantage of my ocition to beat him out of the bill. I met im afterward, and asked him to take it back. I hardly recollect what was said. But I would not stand such an insult. I struck him four times, and he commenced to beg. I then arrested him and carried him to Dr. Porter, and told him what had occurred."

This morning I pproached him, at the corner of East Court and Second, and inquired: "Is this Captain Arata?" "Yes." "I have a hack-bill against you, and have called for the money." He said: "I don't know you. Who are you?" "I am the man who did the bauling."

"Well, how much is it?" I answered,
"Three dollars." He said, "I won't pay it."
I inquired, "For what reason?" His answer was, "I didn't hire you." I then said:
"Captain, you ordered me to do the work." Arata had told a driver named Dick to come after the loads, and Dick had sent me. I knocked at the door and Arata came out and inquired, what was and Arata came out and inquired what was wanted, and I explained why I had been He told me to wait awhile, and after ward came out with the persons who were to be hauled to the corner of Overton and Main. taken to the corner of Union and Hernando. In both instances he gave the orders. After I told him, this morning, that I had done the hauling, he said, "You send Dick here." "I did send Dick, and you told him to send me. If you do not pay it I will go to those whom I hauled and ask them for it." He then called me a scoundrel, and said for two cents he would punch my head off. I then said, captain, don't do it. No gentleman, especially an officer, would do that. He had started up the steps of the health office, but
